

Hello dear,

First of all, how are you?

I hope you are fine now and that your hand has healed completely.

Are you still upset with me? Hmm, maybe because I didn't answer your question the way you expected.

So for that reason i will bribe you with some chocolates since you once said you love them and no one ever brings you any.

But if you really want the answer to your question close your eyes, listen to your heart, and believe what it is been trying to tell you all along.

why do you always say "I don't consider you anything? all these are for formalities?"

answer to that is I always let my actions speak louder than anything else.

Idk why this is happening today i would have convinced you way back but ...
leave i want you to feel this moment

I never want to be the reason to make you feel sad

I am always there to support you and I want you to always feel happy.

At last smile and wish me luck also don't be mad at me and take my autograph my cutiest fan ever
